Art Unit: 3781

1. The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a). The drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims. Therefore, the fastening means in claims must be shown or the feature(s) canceled from the claim(s). No new matter should be entered.

Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

2. Claims 3, 4, and 6-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

"the rotatable attachment " has no antecedent basis.

The term "Velcro" renders the claims indefinite. See Ex parte Simpson, 218 USPQ 1020 (Bd. App. 1982). The claim scope is uncertain since the trademark or trade name cannot be used properly to identify any particular material or product. In fact, the value of a trademark would be lost to the extent that it became descriptive of a product, rather than used as an identification of a source or origin of a product. Thus, the use of a trademark or trade name in a claim to identify or describe a material or product would not only render a claim indefinite, but would also constitute an improper use of the trademark or trade name.

3. Claims 1, 3, and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102 (b) as being anticipated by Caneba (2002/0043544). Caneba teaches a backpack and a frame with a rotatable bar with hook as shown in Fig. 16B.

4. Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Caneba in view of Dischler (6533152). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide a flap as taught by Dischler to provide added security.

5. Claims 5 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Caneba. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide snaps or Velcro in place of the hook and loop in Fig. 16B since these fastening means are deep equivalents in the art.

6. Claims 7-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Caneba in view of Kolstein (4029327) or Gould (3861703). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide hook and loop fasteners as taught by Kolstein or Gould to provide an alternative attachment between the frame and the back pack.

7. Claims 1, 3, and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Lin (3082757). Lin teaches a backpack with attachment to the frame at 109, and portion 109 is the rotatable attachment that is pivotable as claimed.

Art Unit: 3781

8. Claim 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lin. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to use snaps to provide an alternative attachment means for the rotatable attachment 109.
